

PLATE II.

A branch of Borrchia arborescens, the lowermost leaves of which are quite glabrous, while the others are clothed with a dense short down, natural size.

Figure 1.—An outer bract of the involucre.

„ 2.—A pale of the receptacle.

„ 3.—A ray-flower.

„ 4.—Upper portion of style, with stigma from the same.

„ 5.—A disk-flower.

„ 6.—A ripe achene : all more or less enlarged.

Drawn from a Bermudan specimen in Kew Herbarium, collected by Mr Moseley.